

The Power of We™

Avaya E129 SIP Deskphone

Cost-effective SIP deskphone provides essential call handling features and superior audio quality

Ideal for use in location-based situations – such as in lobbies, waiting rooms, warehouses, classrooms and retail spaces – the E129 SIP Deskphone delivers basic SIP telephony capabilities, enabling enterprises to replace older analog or digital phones with today’s technology.

The Avaya E129 deskphones enable users to transfer, mute, forward and place calls on hold as well as initiate ad-hoc conferences with the press of a button. This phone includes three context sensitive soft keys, five hard buttons for basic functions, including conference, speaker volume and directory access for up to 500 entries. The full duplex speakerphone allows for hands-free conversations, and its Power over Ethernet port offers convenient access to the company network.

The Avaya E129 SIP Deskphone has the right calling capabilities and is both affordable and attractive.

The first in the new Avaya E100 Series of devices, the Avaya E129 SIP Deskphone packs all the essential call handling features you’d expect in an affordable, yet highly functional SIP phone.

Capabilities

SIP Telephony*

Get today’s basic Session Initiation Protocol (SIP) communications technology at an affordable price, allowing features such as full duplex speakerphone quality, access to call logs and address books, and visual message waiting indicator. Administrators prefer SIP phones for their built-in redundancy and survivability and the dual Ethernet 10/100 port allows PCs to connect to the network.

The Features You Value Most

For certain situations, such as phones used in office lobbies, waiting rooms, or retail stores, key phone features are needed. The Avaya E129 phone provides all the basic call handling capabilities you’ll need, and then exceeds those needs with such features as programmable softkeys, full duplex speakerphone, and dual Ethernet ports.
